New York Evening Post says:

The great event of the day was the matines at the Academy of Music. With numbers of other curious visitors, I was at the door long before the hour of commencing, and managed to get a good seat and a good view of the Japanese when they entered and were encorted to their hores. I counted thirty-eight, but the chief princes were not among them. The most of them occupied seats in the balcony, while some few were in the proscenium boxes. It was very funny to observe how quickly our Oriental visitors had adapted themselves to our habits. They all wore kid gloves and brandished opera-glasses with great skill.

The overture to William Tell commenced the performances, and was followed by the second act of Lucresia, sung by Parodi, Tam are and Nanni. It was a poor selection, being so purely dramatic that, disconnected from the rest of the opera, its interest was Little Miant-|7 minutes faster than City time, |

Singular Mode of Rendering the Potato M. Noel, a French agriculturist, speaking of the introduction of the potato into France, There was a lawsuit recently in St. Louis' growing out of one party whistling at another.

This vegetable was viewed by the people with extreme disfavor when first introduced, and many expedients were adopted to induce them to use it, but without success. In vain did Louis XVI wear its flower in his buttonhole, and in vain were samples of the tubercle distributed among the farmers; they gave them to their pigs, but would not use it themselves. At last Parmentier, the chemist, who well knew the nutritive properties of the potato, and was most anxious to see it in general use, hit upon the following ingenious plan: He planted a good breadth of potatoes at Sablons, close to Paris, and paid great attention to their cultivation.

When the roots were nearly ripe, he put notices around the field that all persons who stole any of the potatoes would be prosecuted with the utmost rigor of the law, and gendarius were employed to watch the field, day and night, and arrest all trespassers. No sooner were the new roots thus forbidden, as it were, by authority, than all persons

A Spanish proverb says: "A little in the morning is enough; enough at dinner is but little; but a little at night is too much." as it were, by authority, than all persons seemed eager to eat them, and in a fortnight, notwithstanding the gendarmes, the whole crop was stolen, and without doubt, eaten. The new vegetable, having been found to be excellent food, was soon after cultivated in every part of the kingdom.

The heavy rain Monday evening, washed away a considerable portion of the Lebanon (Penn.) Valley Railroad, below Lebanon. Appection of the Little Paince Imperating anal.—After a roview at Paris, an interesting incident occurred, which produced a very pleasing impression on all who witnessed it. The Empress and the Prince Imperial remained some time on the course after the Emperor's departure, and when the Prince had dismounted from his pony and was walking along, the people approached to take a nearer view of the Imperial party. The young Prince was the object of especial notice, which became quite enthusiastic when the Prince, seeing a nice little boy about his own age, accompanied by his father and mother, people of the working class, stopped short, and then, as if moved by an irresistible impulse, went up and kissed the boy most affectionately. All who witnessed this little scene were greatly moved with this proof of kind-heartedness in the young Prince, and to kind-heartedness in the young Prince, and their delight by loud acclammation. A little daughter of Mr. Powler, of Mil-ford, Ct., was run over by the express train from New York, at that place on Monday and killed. An antique maiden of fifty, Ellen Croid-well, hanged herself in Milwaukie, Wis., last week, on account of a disappointment in The New York Courier and Enquirer says that the Niagara is undergoing a thorough overhanding, and will be ready for sea by the 1st of July. There are but four or five houses along this whole stretch of road, which traverses a corner of Avoyelles for a few miles, and then enters Rapides. These houses are very indifferent affairs. One of them is a log or puncheon school-house, and several of the pupils appertaining thereunto I saw. They were approaching the temple of crudition by a cow-path which wound through the forest. They were all of the gentler sex. They were all barefooted. One was nearly six feet tall. They rode saddleless, rough-coated, manetangled, and burr-tailed ponies, after that fashion of which the lords of creation presume to claim the monopoly. Whence they came I don't know; how they came I do; and they did it very well, if not gracefully. There are but four or five houses along this they did it very well, if not gracefully.

Singular Divorce Case Between Nacanons.—In the Supreme Court at Boston, on Wednesday, Judge Shaw granted Mary L.
Amistead a divorce from John P. Amistead, for desertion. The parties are colored, and were married in that city in 1844. The husband was a fugitive slave, and in 1851, fearing that he would be reclaimed by his master, he fied to Canada. The wife wrote the master, saking at what sum he valued the runaway. The reply was, that when at hand he was worth $1,000, but being in the bush, he would take $500 for him. The wife, by great exertions, raised that sum, and having he would take $500 for him. The wife, by great exertions, raised that sum, and having purchased his freedom, went to Canada, and brought him back to Boston. Soon after he shipped as steward on a vessel bound to Australia. At Melbourne he deserted the vessel, and as from time to time the wife has been mable to obtain tidings of him, he rests under the imputation of having deserted her also.

THE ROPE-WALKING MANIA—DE LAVE CHALLENGES BLONDIN.—Mr. De Lave chal-leages Mr. Blondin to a test and trial of skill leages Mr. Blondin to a test and trial of skill at rope-walking, the stakes to be from $1,000 to $1,500, to be paid him who is decided to be the most expert on an "ascension rope" over rivers, valleys, rapids, whirlpools, or waterfulls, any distance or any hight. DEATH OF A HUMAN MYSTERY.—They have recently had a mystery in Napoleon, Ark. The Planter says: "A gentleman calling himself by the name of Sigler, stopped at the Rudd House in this place about a month and a half ago. No one knew him, or his whereabouts—he having nothing to say to any one, not even offering an inducement for any one to speak to him. His mind seemed to be much troubled, and a week or two since he was taken to his bed, and on the thirteenth of last month he expired, without a friend to soothe his troubled heart. It is said that he had on his person at the time of his death between six and seven hundred dollars."

Wisconsin has reduced the legal rate of interest from twelve to temper cent., and allows two years for the reducition of lands which have been sold out on marterage.

A Shanghai letter writer says in a recen minunication to a New York paper The people seem literally crowded for room, and the great question is, how can they be fed? During times of piece and plenty, when the avenues of trade and commerce are all open, and while the seasons are favorable and the soil yields its usual increase of grain, China, like a vast bee-hive in a pleasant summer description. China, like a vast bee-hive in a pleasant summer day, when the honey-bearing flowers are all in bloom, seems to be a pleasant and prosperous land. An unseasonable rain, or the other extreme of drought, the visit of the locust, or any other of those casualties that affect injuriously the harvest, is truly a national calamity. "We shall all starve," said a poor old woman as she saw the locusts settling down upon her little patch of rice, just as it began to ripen, after it having been carefully attended by her for several months. "I fear we shall starve" is a common remark in China, when the supply of food is cut short by any accident. No wonder, then, the people dread a war. Those who fall by the bullet, bayonet and sword, constitute but a small et, bayonet and sword, constitute but a small part of the sufferers. Often, indeed, they are the ones rather to be congratulated than pitied, as they are spared the witnessing evilpitied, as they are spared the witnessing evils of so much greater magnitude. Every foot of all of the hostile army landed on the shores of China, crushes out the lives of multitudes of human beings, whom they never meet, and who have never offended them or their government in any way. The horrors of a battle-field, a few hours after the strife is over, may be depicted, but who can ever imagine the long and dreary weeks and months of hopeless, bleak starvation and misery that will stalk along in the desolated pathway of an army marching through the heart of this empire swarming with human life?

OF CONGRESS IN A PREDICAMENT AFTER DRATH .- The Descret News, of May 9, contains a communication from Elder Hyde in relation to the Congressional Bill for the punishment of polygamy. He says:

what a "terrible fix" some of our priestly members of Congress will be in when they die and are carried by angels to Abraham's bosom. Abraham, of course, is their father, and when they get home to his bosom and find Sarah leaning on one arm and Hagar upon the other, being in such close proximity to and so mixed up with polygamy, they may begin to tell the old gentleman of his errors, his corruptions, and his wickedness. The old father won't stand this, but administer to them a good thrashing, telling them to keep their noses clean and mind their own business. He will, most likely, regard all such as illegitimate children; for, if they were his legitimate children, they would do the works of Abraham; and one portion of his work was to take unto himself more than one wife.

Thereupon the editor of the News says it is not a supposable case that any member of Congress who favors the bill will ever be carried into Abraham's bosom.

OFFICIAL PUBLTY IN ENGLAND .- A recent inquiry and explanations in the House of Commons illustrate the English idea of offi-cial purity. It was reported that Lord Clar-ence Paget, Secretary of the Admiralty, had ence Paget, Secretary of the Admiralty, had financial connections with a firm of contractors. Mr. Lygen called up the matter in the House, in order to give the Secretary an opportunity to furnish an explanation, if he could. It was shown that Lord Clarence Paget had, in 1857, declined a seat at the Board of Admiralty because he was a shareholder in some ships belonging to the firm alluded to, and that in 1859, on accepting office, he sold his shares in the vessels at a great sacrifice, in order that he might with propriety assume the position offered him. The proceedings were conducted with a dignity and courtesy which render them worthy to be read carefully by some of our Congressmen, and the result of the investigation was the proof of official scrupulousness in the Secretary which might well be commended to some of our functionaries as worthy of of our function

TRIBULATIONS OF JAPANESE "TOMMY."-The Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Evening Post says:

"Tommy"—whose real name is Tatalesi Owajseire, and who is an adopted son of Tatalesi Tokujsuro—is getting completely spoiled by the attention he receives from the ladies. He still, however, talks about his first love, the little girl at Washington, and expresses a strong desire to take her to Japan with him. Her daguerreotype he carries in his sleeve a great part of the time, and consoles himself with occasional glances. He, however, does not exhibit a fondness for the fair sex only. He can drink champagne like a trooper, and yesterday tried to smoke a cigar, but like all other fast youths, his first trial of this luxury was rather disastrous, and trial of this luxury was rather disastrous, and poor Tommy became very sick, indeed.

THE FLOATING POPULATION OF THE CRESSTIAL EMPIRE.—There is an immense population in Chins who subsist entirely upon the products of the fisheries. The people who live upon the water are numbered by millions. They are born, grow up, live and die in their little boats. It is no uncommon thing to see a man with his wife and several children occupying day and night, summer and winter, their tiny craft for all purposes. This large class have no other home. A man's boat is "his castle" at truly as is an Englishman's house. The laboring classes are wonderfully industrious, and they surpass most people in frugality. The art of living in the Empire is reduced to its cheapest and simplest forms, so far as food is concerned.

EXTRIORDINARY BIRTH—THE STARGEST TWINS SURPASSED.—The Albany (N. Y.) Evening Journal says that a German woman in that city gave birth, a day or two since, to male twins, joined together in a most extraordinary manner. They were born face to face, and united together from the neck down. They had two heads, four arms and hands, and two logs. In fact they were perfect, except in some minor details of the human form. They lived about two hours after birth, and upon the attending physician desiring them for preservation, the father domanded $25 for them, which he did not obtain.

AMERICANS WORKING COPPER MINES IN CANADA. — The Toronto (Canada) Leader speaks of the recent discovery of valuable copper mines in the vicinity of Acton, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway, between Montreal and Quebec, and states that they are being worked at a good profit by a company of Americans. Considerable sums are said to have been offered by Americans for other mining locations, but have been refused. The Leader thinks Canada is "destined to become as famous for its copper mines as California and Australia are for their gold mines."

The Japanese Enjoying the Italian Opera. Precarious Living in China-The People's Accomplishment Injured by Thought-The LATEST BY TELEGRAPH

Accomplishment Isjured by Thought—The Proper Mode of Performance.

No man knows how to do anything well until he knows how to do it without thinking. He must begin by thinking. But thought must beget spontaneity. No man is a skillful workman who must direct each stroke of his tool by a special thought. The artist thist, in painting a picture, has to think what he shall put in here, and what he shall put in the same a stist hatched out, full-fleedged, and with freedom of wing. And as it is in the shop, on the easel, in the school-room, on the ship, in all wordly relations, so it is in a religous life. Our various daties must begin by careful consideration. But by practice, they should flow on as if by their own momentum. A trust in one's self, as opposed to an humble dependence upon God, and a devout recognition of his Providence, is wicked. But there is a kind of trust which one must have in himself. If we stop our life at every round, if we break up continuity of action by a kind of suspicion, we shall not only not avoid evil but shall bring in other elements of irresoluteness, timidity, and querulousness of conscience!

On the other hand, that largeness, openness, courage, and liberty in conduct, which leads a man to venture not presumptaously, but confidently, is peculiarly manly. He means right. He is determined. Above all, God is with him! They who trust God, may then put some confidence in their own intentions. When a man is in battle he has no time to oppose fencing. A man should go through his drill service before the day of battle. And when a man is in battle he has no time to practice fencing. A man should go through his drill service before the day of battle. And when a man is in battle he has no time to stop and consider the propriety of every thing he does. He should lay out a plan by which his life is to be governed, and then when worldly cares come upon him he should go forward unhesitatingly, with a firm reliance on that plan. Let him take sight in the morning and review at evening, and between late letter:

There is something absolutely feightful in the contemplation of a war introduced into the populous districts of this country. You can not compute the hererors of war here by comparison with any other country under heaven. Owing to the wonderful density of its population, every square inch of soil is put under contribution, and by a refinement in the arts of enriching and cultivation, unknown in any other land, is made to yield to its utmost capacity those grains and vegetables that constitute the chief sustenance of the inhabitants. There is no waste land here, down to the very water's edge, wherever a blade of grass, or a stalk of grain, or a nutritious vegetable, can be made to grow, there the tircless patience of a Chinese hand has planted and his ingenuity brought to perfection something that can be used to sustain human life. Every river, rivulet, and lake, is besieged by the busy multitude and made to yield of its finny tribes, and the feathered inhabitants of the air are subject to the same demand. Every avenue of trade and industry that offers a chance for man, woman, or child, to earn a trifle, so as to be able to sustain life, is besieged by an eager multitude, all seeming anxious to supply their daily wants by patient industry.

CHARLES SUMMER AND HIS POLITICAL EXE-MIND A Washington letter of late date ob-serves. If is but hir to say that Mr. Sumner was exceedingly desirous that not a syllable of the affair abould get into the papers, or to the public in any other way; and to please him great care was taken to keep it secret, but somebody sent a despatch to a Boston newspaper. Friday night and Saturday fore-noon numberless despatches were received here from Boston, New York and other cities, demanding to know the particulars, and it demanding to know the particulars, and it was no longer possible to withhold the facts. In many cases offers were made to come on here by hundreds and thousands, if necessary, to protect Mr. Sumner at all hazards. This the North about this matter, and the Southern says:

We have again heard of the ubiquitous Cortinas. He is said to be at a place called Laguna de los Yudioa, some sixty miles from Camargo, and between Reynosa and China; he has seventy or eighty men with him, and says he is preparing to make another visit to Rio Grande City; also, that his preparations are nearly completed; he only awaiting the arrival of Wild Cat and his Indians. His Mexican forces can, to the number of eight hundred, be called together almost instantaneously, they being scattered in all the ranchos on the river.

Ax Extragely Woven Shiar.—Thomas Hall, linen-weaver in Ireland, has finished a shirt entirely in the loom. It is woven throughout without seams, and very accurately and neatly gathered at the neck, shoulders and wrists. The neck and wristbands are doubled and stitched; there is a regular selvage on each side of the breast; and where sticking ordinarily is, so it is in this shirt. In short, it is as perfectly finished as if made by an expert needle-woman. The shirt has been exhibited to several persons in the linen trade, who are completely satisfied that it is actually the production of the loom without any assistance from the needle. without any assistance from the needle.

THE JAPANESE ANNOYED BY OVER-CURIOUS The JAPANESE ANSOYED BY OVER-CURROUS WOMEN.—The toilet of the Japanese, says a Philadelphia letter, occupies much time, the process of shaving the head being long and tedious. You will be surprised to learn that a number of females—ladies of Philadelphia, I suppose, they would be called—do not hesitate to march into the rooms of the Japanese during their toilets, and observe with impertinent curiosity the operation of shaving. The Japanese submit to the intrusion with marvelous good humor.

A Man Farally Possess by Strychnine Varon.—A curious case of poisoning recently occurred in Jordan, Penn. A Mr. Andy was preparing some corn for poisoning crows by saturating it in hot water in which a ounnity of strychnine had been dissolved. He inhaled the steam arising from the mixture, and before he was aware of danger, he was so badly poisoned that his life for a number of days was despaired of.

Another Drath from Eating Hard Boilen Educ.—At the parade of the Gregory Guards, in Jersey City, N. J., recently, a Mr. Hopper, one of the members of the corps, atc. wenty hard boiled eggs, and washed them down with copious potations of lager-biar. He died from indigestion after a short period of suffering.

NARBOW ESCAPE FROM LIGHTRING.—In a town in Vermont, last week, two girls, who were passing along the street, were knocked down by a stroke of lightning, but not actiously injured. On the neck of one was an impression in red, like the branch of a tree, and one of her feet was blackened.

James Street and six other gentlemen have formed a company with a capital stock of $250,000, for the purpose of building a telegraph line from San Francisco to Fort Yuma, was San Jose, Gilroy and San Angelos, and a branch to Monterey.

One hundred guns were fired in Auburn on receipt of the intelligence of the nomination of Bell and Everett. Immense enthusiasm prevailed.

The following notice was posted in the Custom-house at San Francisco:

"Kanagawha, April 2.—The Prince Gotairo is not yet dead, and there is every hope of his recovery."

is not yet dead, and there is every hope of his recovery."

The following is from a private letter:

"Fokohamo, April 3.—About a week ago, Prince Gotairo, when on his way from his private dwelling to the palace in Jeddo, with his usual guard of sixteen men, was attacked by a party of eighteen. Six of the guard and four of the assailants were killed, and several were wounded on each side, including the Prince.

"The guard fought bravely. During the attack one of the assailants was fatally attack one of the assailants was fatally wounded. One of his comrades, to prevent detection, cut off his head and made his escape through one of the gates close at hand.

"It is supposed by many that a revolution is pending, which, if successful, will result in the speedy expulsion or death of all for-in the speedy explained of death of all foreigners.

"The Government has taken extraordinary precautions to protect themselves and this place from assault. Guard-houses have been established along the road leading to Jeddo, and the guards armed with muskets.

Appearance and Manner of the Mormon Troods.—The Philadelphia Inquirer thus speaks of Brigham Young, who is now in that city incognite: "A tall, slender gentleman stalked into the billiard-room at the Point Breeze Trotting Park, on Thursday, and joined in a friendly game with one of the subscribers. He did not refuse the customary imbibation of the ardent, and behaved in a very satisfactory, Christian manner. The subscriber will thank us for assuring him that the tall, slender gentleman was Brigham Young. And many unconscious citizens have met the same tall, slender man in many places. He is introduced as Mr. Smith, or Mr. Jones, as occasion may require, but is, Mr. Jones, as occasion may require, but is, nevertheless, only King Brigham."

A CONFIDENCE WOMAN ADOPTING A DRAMATIC ROLE.—Miss Anne Keese, of New York, appears to be a skillful confidence operator. She recently purchased "a love of a bonnet," at a store on Division-street, representing herself as a leading actress at the Museum, and was so enchanted with the "dear children" of the milliner, that she gave her and her husband, and all the sweet little ducks, free passes to the Museum. She then paid for the bonnet and withdrew, amid the warm thanks and admiration of the family. But, ainsi it was soon discovered that the bills were all counterfeits and the passes worthless. Anne tried the same game on elsewhere, but was detected, and is now in jall.

A WOMAN WINNING HER FREEDON. - Jan A Woman Winning Hee Freedom.—Jane Wade, some time since escaped from the Connecticut Penitentiary; the other day she was arrested, having lived, in the Interim, on what she could beg, steal, and pick up. Her home had been under barns, in the woods, &c. When found her clothes were nearly off of her. This girl is quite intelligent, and when dressed carefully appears proposessing

An Apr Name you an Exquisite.—"There is Charlie Tompkins, the lion of the season; don't you think he's the pink of elegance?" observed a lady to her acquaintance, at a fasionable watering place, as an extravegantly got up dandy made his appearance. "No," said her friend, "I'd rather call him a 'dandy-lion."

A NEW RELIGIOUS DAILY IN NEW YORK It is stated that a new daily religious paper will be issued in New York, about the let of August, under the editorial control of the Rev. Henry Ward Bescher. The affice as lected is in the Museum building, furmarly occupied by Stringer & Townsend, book sellers.
